GERMAN BATTLES OVER SOUTHERN GERMANY

BULLETIN
Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 24.—(P)—Allied heavy and medium bombers blasted the Parma rail yards in north central Italy and lashed at the west coast ports of Genoa, Livorno (Leghorn), Piombino and Santo Stefano last night in the wake of destructive daylight assaults by escorted American heavy bombers against vital aircraft plants in Austria.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

London, April 24.—(P)—An American sky force approaching 2,000 heavy bombers and fighters smashed plane plants and other factories at Friedrichshafen and air fields near Munich today as the German did told of simultaneous blows by Americans in Romania, indicating perhaps the heaviest coordinated attack of the war.

The assault on German objectives was carried out in good weather, which, while aiding bombardiers to lay their explosives on the targets, gave the Germans a better chance to challenge these latest blows in the history-making campaign to drive the German air force from the sky.

The German radio said the American bombers and fighters were engaged by Nazi defenders even before they crossed the border and fierce battles were fought over southern Germany. Early official American reports did not mention today's losses in the greatest aerial offensive of all time.

Light and medium bombers and fighters joining in the shuttle parade toward northern France, indicated that Nazi cross-channel installations, already pounded by 8,000 tons of bombs in the current offensive, were being hit for the eighth consecutive day following RAF night smashes at targets in Belgium and western Germany.

The Vichy radio said Lille, railroad center in northern France, was being evacuated. The railroad yards have been hit frequently and hard of late, and the city's airfields were among targets of American fighter-bombers yesterday.

Marauders of the Ninth Air Force, striking twice against enemy targets in France and Belgium, today climaxed their heaviest six-day period of activity since they started combat operations from England May 14, 1942.

A-20 light bombers, which recently joined the Marauder forces, took part in several of the record-breaking American Expeditionary Air Force operations.

A confident Allied announcement predicting early destruction of the Nazi air force as a preliminary to forcing Germany to her knees, coincided today with a renewed outbreak of invasion speed-guessing by Berlin.

A 2,000-word statement issued jointly last night by the British Air Ministry and the United States Strategic Air Forces declared "The assault upon the German aircraft industry is now reaching its climactic phase in a battle to the finish."

A "success" but "not yet a complete one," the offensive has smashed a desperate German counter-plan to quadruple fighter production by this month, the statement said, adding that while the Nazi air force can fight "on favorable occasions" it is the inability of the German fighter force to match the scale of our attack deep within its own territory is the thrust of measure of the present condition of the German fighter force.

PROMINENT OFFICIAL OF TEXAS CO. DIES
Bayonne, N. J., April 24.—(P)—Albert E. Manley, 68, an executive of the Texas Company for more than 30 years until his retirement in 1941 as general superintendent of terminals for the oil concern, died yesterday at his home here after a brief illness.

A native of Shinglerhouse, Pa., he joined the Port Arthur, Texas, branch of the Texas Company in 1911 and came to Bayonne 16 years ago as plant superintendent. He became general superintendent in New York, and later returned here as terminals chief.

Non-commissioned officers in unit included Edward E. Wolford, Lancaster, Pa.

The first wave of "Buffaloes" (amphibious vehicles) to stroke the center of the beachhead was commanded by Capt. Donald M. Anderson, Portland, Ore.

In addition to Anderson, commissioned officers in this group included First Lt. Frank H. Smith, Philadelphia, Pa., and Second Lt. Glen L. Knight, Waynesburg, Pa.

With American troops at Humble Bay, near Hollandia, New Guinea, April 22.—(Delayed)—(P) Four companies of infantrymen headed the assaults today on crescent-shaped beaches destined to be the starting points for drives north and west to Hollandia's chain of airfields.

The company landing on the left flank was commanded by First Lt. H. Haldick, Memphis, Mich.

New and Fantastic Tactics Are Employed by Allies To Cut Enemy Supply Lines at Myitkyina

SITUATION IMPROVING

By THOBURN WIAAT

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Ceylon, April 24.—(P)—A complete unit of glider-borne guerrilla fighters, employing fantastic new Allied tactics of infiltration by air, has firmly established a defense box squarely across a north-south railroad deep behind the enemy lines in Burma, it was disclosed today.

Allied headquarters, announcing the latest stroke to cut Japanese supply lines to Myitkyina, chief enemy base in north Burma, and their invasion thrust in India, said substantial Allied forces had been flown in to reinforce Chindits already operating over a front more than 100 miles wide 200 miles inside Burma.

Meanwhile, the communiqué indicated that old-style Japanese infiltration tactics through the jungle were meeting with a decided check in the invasion of India. The announcement said the Kohima-Dimapur road had been cleared and relief of the Kohima garrison completed, thereby dissipating the enemy threat to the Bengal-Assam railway which feeds American airforces in China.

Lean, jungle-trained Scots, Irish and British were flown with their pack mules and supplies by American air commando force gliders on the latest invasion deep inside Burma, said a dispatch from the American glider base.

Latest reports on Japanese movements in north central Burma indicated the Japanese still were confused by the new landings and had not yet detected where the main force had been concentrated, although the operation was carried out at night six days ago. The defense block across the vital railroad was established without a shot being fired.

Navy Itching For Fight With Jap Warships

New York, April 24.—(P)—Rear Admiral DeWitt C. Ramsey, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the U. S. Navy, said today the navy was itching for a "knock down drag out fight" with the Japanese navy, and the sooner it came the better.

"We can afford to play the game of ship for ship with them and they cannot," he said in an address preparing for the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, non-profit news gathering cooperative, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Ramsey and Lieut. Gen. Alexander A. Vandergrift, marine corps commandant, who also spoke, declared that Japan might not risk her fleet until the war moved close to her homeland.

Another speaker at the luncheon, a feature of the 44th annual meeting of U. S. Col. John R. Allison of the Army Air Corps, who described the landing of gliders and troops behind the Japanese lines in Burma. Robert McLean, A. president, presided.

Loss of Liberty Ship Unexplained

Seattle, April 24.—(P)—Only the faintest hope remained today for at least 55 men presumed lost in the unexplained sinking of the munitions-carrying Liberty ship John Straub which broke in two on its third voyage in Alaskan waters last Wednesday.

E. M. Murphy, superintendent of the Alaska Steamship Company, announced yesterday that the forward portion sank immediately. The after section remained afloat for 14 hours, long enough for a coast guard cutter to reach the scene and for coast guardsmen to board the derelict and determine there was no one aboard.

Earlier a small army vessel had reached the scene, near the western tip of the Alaska peninsula, and picked up 15 survivors.

All lifeboats and rafts but one have been accounted for, Murray said.

Many Changes Advocated for Price Control

By TOM REEDY

Washington, April 24.—(P)—Seven major changes in the nation's price control and stabilization program were advocated today by the Smith committee of the house-OPA's severest critic in congress.

A rewritten price control act containing the recommendations was filed by the group assigned to investigate whether government agencies exceed their authority. It is headed by Rep. Smith (D-Va.).

A minority report concurred in some of the proposals but differed sharply in others.

The majority plan suggested: 1.—Writing the president's hold-the-line freeze of wages and prices as of Sept. 15, 1942, into the price control law.

2.—A curb on the powers of the War Labor Board.

3.—Abolition of the treble damages the OPA can impose on a price violator and substituting a maximum $50,000 penalty.

4.—Abolition of OPA's authority to order sanctions without court review.

5.—Required publication of executive orders, regulations and directives in the federal register.

6.—Relaxation of certain rent controls.

7.—Broadener court review powers over both OPA and WLE orders.

CIVIL WAR VET DIES

Pottsville, April 24.—(P)—John J. Kohler, 97, Schuylkill county's last Civil War veteran died yesterday in a hospital after an illness of 10 weeks. He was the third Pennsylvania Civil War veteran to die in the past week.

Fighting Doughboys Tell Own Stories of Gallant Exploits

Washington, April 24.—(P)—A couple of doughboys—Second Lieutenant Ernest Childers and Sergeant Charles E. (Commando) Kelly—returned from Italy's battlefields today to tell almost apologetically how they won the nation's highest award for heroism, the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Side by side at the big table in Secretary of War Stimson's conference room sat Childers, 26-year-old Creek Indian from Tulsa, Okla., and Kelly, 23-year-old Irishman from Pittsburgh. With obvious trepidation, they faced a crowd of reporters and photographers, and told in halting phrases their own stories of the actions which won them their high decorations, given only "for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at risk of life, above and beyond the call of duty."

They were a striking contrast. Childers, six feet two, weighing 185 pounds, copper-skinned, close-cropped black hair, related that "there were three machine gun nests on that hill, but I only got to take care of two of them—an other fellow, that got the Silver Star, took care of the other one."

Kelly, five feet seven inches, 152 pounds, clear ruddy complexion and thick, wavy brown hair, conceded that on "D-Day," beyond Salerno, he seemed to be out in front most of the time, "sticking my neck out."

Colonel Stanley J. Grogan, deputy director of army public relations, introduced the two heroes as "two dough-boys," adding that "the doughboy (infantryman) is (Turn to Page Two)

Pennsylvania Closes Books On Most Listless Political Campaign In Recent History

Leaders of Both Major Parties Admit Interest Is Running at Low Ebb

4,223,601 ARE ELIGIBLE

Philadelphia, April 24.—(P)—Pennsylvania closed its political books today on the most listless primary campaign in years.

Republican and Democratic chieftains, unusually eager to comment on the outlook on the eve of a nomination election, restricted themselves to a brief forecast—tomorrow's vote will be light.

State GOP Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said the Republicans are "saving our ammunition for the fall" while Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence declared voter "interest is running at a near low."

The state's 4,223,601 registered voters—2,454,290 Republicans, 1,717,472 Democrats and the remainder of minor parties—will nominate tomorrow candidates for U. S. senator, justice of the state supreme court, two judges of the state superior court, auditor general, state treasurer, 33 representatives, and delegates to the national conventions.

Although there are none of the potential Republican presidential candidates entered in the primary here, there are speculations as to whether the voters will take time to write in their favorites.

All but two of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation are running for re-election—Rep. Francis J. Myers dropping out to accept the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator and Rep. William I. Troutman, forced out because his state-wide district was eliminated by the new reapportionment act.

Nine Democratic congressional incumbents and 11 Republicans have no opposition while three Democrats are opposed and eight Republicans have opponents in their districts.

In the state senate, nine Democrats are trying for re-election, including five without opposition in the primary, while 11 Republicans are seeking return to their seats—10 of them have no opponents.

Seventy-two Democrats and 119 Republicans in the house are running for re-election.

The primary slates include: U. S. Senator—Congressman Francis J. Myers, Democrat; James J. Davis, Republican.

Supreme Court—Judge Charles Alvin Jones, of the U. S. circuit court, Democrat; Justice Howard W. Hughes, Republican.

Superior Court (2)—Judges Arthur H. James, Chester H. Rhodes, Democrat; Arthur H. James, J. Frank Graff and Chester H. Rhodes, Republican.

Auditor General—John F. Breslin and G. Harold Wagner, Democrat; G. Harold Watkins, Republican.

State Treasurer—Ramsey S. Black, Democrat, and Edgar W. Baird, Jr., Republican.

Sharp Gunfire In English Channel
Folkestone, England, April 24.—(P)—Sounds of sharp gunfire in the English channel—apparently denoting a clash between British and German light naval forces—was heard for 30 minutes this morning by residents on the British southeast coast.

The Berlin radio said that German light naval vessels in two clashes with light British coastal craft off Cherbourg shortly after midnight had scored "many hits" in the first encounter and that two British vessels had been "badly hit" in the second.

The broadcast, recorded by U. S. Government Monitors, also asserted that E-boats had sunk a medium-seize steamer off Beachy Head on the south coast of England last night and had "severely damaged" a British light coastal craft after a two-hour engagement "very close inshore."

Philadelphia, April 24.—(P)—Secretary Perkins said today that the United Nations should regard as "a matter of international concern" the maintenance of high levels of employment and national income within every nation.

The labor secretary, speaking before the International Labor Organization conference, said the U. S. ILO delegation will recommend that the United Nations "agree in principle" on this attitude.

Miss Perkins also said the ILO should discuss economic matters—previously barred from the organization's agenda.

President Roosevelt told the conference last week that the organization, last surviving segment of the League of Nations, must be the agency "for decision and for action" on social and economic matters affecting working people.

MacArthur Terms Latest Operation Bataan in Reverse

Nipponese Caught off Base by Feints in Direction of Wewak and Madang

AIRSTRIPS ARE TAKEN

By C. YATES McDANIEL

MacArthur's Advanced Headquarters in New Guinea, April 24.—(AP)—Under cover of a tremendous naval and air blasting, thousands of American troops established a beachhead at Hollandia and Aitape on the strategic north coast of New Guinea Saturday, and today 60,000 more isolated Japanese faced annihilation.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who witnessed the gigantic operation, termed it Bataan in reverse.

MacArthur's triumphant communique today said 140,000 Japanese troops stretching from New Guinea to the Solomon Islands are thus "neutralized and strategically impotent." These Japanese are all that remain of a force of 250,000 established in these islands for the invasion of Australia, he declared, adding:

"Time and combat will be required to accomplish the annihilation, but their ultimate fate is now certain."

"Their situation reverses Bataan."

The 60,000 Japanese are caught between Hollandia and Madang. The other 80,000 are on New Britain, New Zealand and Bougainville.

The Japanese, caught far off base by feints in the direction of Wewak and Madang to the south, offered little opposition to the powerful American forces which poured ashore on both sides of Hollandia and at Aitape, 150 miles southeast.

Immediately the Americans drove toward the airdromes at both bases with tractors and bulldozers to make serviceable the excellent airstrips which are a little over 1,000 miles from the Philippines—within bomber range.

General MacArthur, intent upon returning to the Philippines, from which the Americans withdrew a little more than two years ago, watched the Hollandia landings from the deck of a bombarding cruiser and went ashore with the second wave of troops, which established a beachhead at Tanahmerah Bay, west of Hollandia, at dawn.

After greeting field commanders and many of the men he proceeded to the Aitape area and watched from a destroyer as the first assault team made shore, later to seize Aitape's airstrip, MacArthur went in with the second wave again and expressed his satisfaction to the commanding general for a job well done.

The Aitape landings were preceded by the seizure of Tumbon and Sele islands offshore. This brought Aitape itself within artillery range—a tactic reminiscent of that used in the capture of the first Marshall islands.

DROWNING AT ERIE
Erie, April 24.—(P)—Coroner Warren W. Wood reported Mrs. Clemence M. Smith, 70, was drowned in a creek near her home here yesterday. He said he believed the woman went for a walk and tumbled into the shallow stream.

Two Beachhead Thrusts Repelled
Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 24.—(P)—Allied troops have repulsed two German thrusts against the Anzio beachhead, headquarters announced today as activity elsewhere along the Italian front remained limited to patrol clashes and artillery duels.

One of the unsuccessful thrusts against the beachhead was made in company strength around Capranza in the central sector. The other was an infiltration attempt southwest of Carroceto, 21 miles below Rome.

West of Mt. Marrone, mile-high peak 15 miles northeast of Cassino held by Italian troops, Allied patrols probed and engaged the Germans at a point where little opposition had been shown previously.

Dewey and Roosevelt Face Minor Challenges This Week

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

The top runners in the Democratic and Republican presidential nomination contests—President Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York—face mild challenges this week in the dizzy pace set by their backers in collecting convention delegates.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who has not shared publicly in the support from any of the 477 Republican delegates selected thus far, is making a bid in Kentucky tomorrow for some of that state's 22 convention representatives.

Supporters of a fourth term nomination for President Roosevelt were not sure how much trouble they will face in tomorrow's Massachusetts preferential primary, where 34 Democratic delegates are to be selected.

Tomorrow also will find Pennsylvania Democrats selecting a delegation of 72 pledged to President Roosevelt. Pennsylvania's Re-electing convention delegates, publicans will pick 70 uninstructed delegates.

To round out a busy week of delegate picking, Colorado Republicans will select 15 Wednesday, Oklahoma Republicans will complete a slate of 23 and Rhode Island Republicans a group of eight on Friday.

Senator In Favor of Short Session May 1

One week from today members of the Legislature will convene at the call of Gov. Edward Martin to take up the matter of legislation for the soldiers voting who are in the service. Leaders of the Legislature have met and agreed on a short session but there is always danger that the debates, etc., may prolong the meeting as after 30 days the legislators draw $750 additional pay. Senator L. E. Chapman, of this district today stated that in his opinion all politics should be cast aside this year and attention given to getting the desired legislation passed in the shortest time possible. "It is imperative that the men in the services be given the opportunity to cast their ballot in the election and every legislator in Pennsylvania I know feels the same about it that I do."

THE PLAY'S THE THING

WHAT does the future hold?

Reading scripts isn't exactly crystal gazing, but Actress Helen Hayes, seems to see at least one bright spot in this play about the post-war world. Backstage in her dressing room, the star of "Harriet"—one of America's best loved leading ladies—reads the one-act drama sent in by a hopeful competitor in the play contest being conducted in USOs and YWCAs.

Miss Hayes, Mrs. William S. Bowen, chairman of the USO Division of the YWCA (left), and playwright Paul Elliot Green, 1927 Pulitzer prize winner, will pick the lucky scribes.

You don't have to be a master mind to compete in the contest sponsored jointly by two Divisions of the National Board, Young Women's Christian Associations. Any devotee of USOs or YWCAs, except professional staff, who has ideas on the kind of world he'd like to live in after the war may try his hand as a playwright. Two $100 war bonds—one for the best amateur and one for the best professional writer—will be awarded when the winners are announced in late spring.

Who knows? Perhaps the manuscript Miss Hayes is holding here will hit the jackpot.

Auto Crashes Investigated By Policemen

Police over the weekend investigated two minor automobile accidents. No one was injured in either crash and the loss on the cars was fairly nominal.

The first took place on Pennsylvania avenue east when a pickup truck driven by O. W. Albaugh smashed into the rear of a pickup truck driven by Fred D. Mosher, of Falconer, N. Y. Mosher was preparing to turn into a side street when his truck was hit. The damage to both cars amounted to about $150.

On Friday Louis Ardriani, Jr., of Tampa, Fla., backed away from a parking space into a truck driven by Raymond Ace, 819 Fourth avenue. The cars crashed and the damage is estimated at $25. The Florida man assumed the blame, according to the police report on file.

These little affairs coupled with hushing dogs, chasing kids to bed and picking up a few drunks off the streets kept the coppers busy and the town calm over the weekend.

Anglers Had Poor Luck On Local Streams

Anglers who were out over the weekend report that the fishing was none too good and that they were rewarded with small catches. The streams are hardly in good shape yet and the cool winds that swept the streams make conditions unfavorable to filling creels.

There have been a few big fish taken and these struck mostly on minnows but the number has not been great and many are inclined to think that they are fish that have been stocked this spring and are not biting especially hard and last night.

The weather report promises more rain today and tomorrow and then it is expected to be warmer.

The rains of the past few days have been such that the woodlands are well wetted down alleviating the danger from fires. However, the forestry officials urge that all fishermen use care in the woods when throwing away cigarettes and emptying pipes.

Dealers Asked To Watch For Gas Coupons

The serial numbers of gasoline coupons stolen from the Keystone Moving and Storage Company, 202 E. 8th Street, were released today by Albert Berger, acting chief attorney for the Erie District OPA office, so that gasoline dealers may be on the lookout for them.

A total of 999 coupons were stolen with serial numbers from AV355049 through AV5456048. Berger said. All of the coupons were second quarter T coupons.

Police are also on the lookout for approximately 5,000 gasoline coupons, G3 series, worth 25,000 gallons, which disappeared en route between New York and Pittsburgh, whose serial numbers range between E540001 through E545000, Berger said.

Mr. Berger asked all gasoline stations to call the Erie office immediately if any of the above mentioned coupons appear.

Pittsburgh, April 24—(P)—Pittsburghers today rolled out the welcome mat for "Commando" Kelly, their top hero and first enlisted man to win the Congressional Medal of Honor in World War II.

Arrival of Tech. Sgt. Charles E. Kelly to his country was announced officially at Washington yesterday, climaxing weeks of waiting by his mother, six servicemen brothers and hundreds of friends since the War Department reported he would be granted a furlough.

Harold F. Burnsworth, chairman of the Kelly Welcome Committee, said he was uncertain as to whether the parade and reception would be held today. If Kelly's arrival is too late, he said, the public welcome would take place. It would not be held Tuesday because of elections, Burnsworth said.

this report, the German propaganda machine was proclaiming that "the fortress of Holland is ready for coming events" and, at a glider base in England, Britain's airborne formations were pronounced fully trained for the impending assault on Europe, after large-scale maneuvers lasting 24 hours.

A broadcast German Transoceanic Agency dispatch declared plans were perfected for breaking Holland's dikes and flooding the country. "In case an invasion attempt is made in this area all vehicles, tanks and guns will get stuck in the mud," the broadcast said.

A Nazi war correspondent asserted "Germany is calm and prepared."

Do you live in North Warren? And are you doing your spring housecleaning?

If the answer to these questions is "yes," Mr. Chris Pepke, chairman of the salvage committee for North Warren, solicits your cooperation. On Friday, April 28 the North Warren Civic Club will conduct what they call a general spring Housecleaning Salvage Pick-up. This means that you are to place on your curbs on that Ever since the beginning of the war citizens of North Warren have been among the most cooperative in the entire county in the salvage work, and have secured constantly excellent results. DETAIL FOR TODAY

A SHAVETAIL is a second lieutenant, usually of the ninety-day wonder species. He derives the title ninety-day-wonder from the three months spent in Officer Candidate School. Most OCS graduates still have all of their enlisted men's trappings and they usually take their shirts to the post tailor and have shoulder straps sewn on, the necessary cloth coming from you-know-where—hence, SHAVETAIL. There is nothing so eager as a SHAVETAIL right out of OCS. He's the soldier's nightmare, for he is dripping with fresh knowledge of all the courtesies and customs that are due him. While a full general may overlook the G. I. who fails to salute at a given time, the SHAVETAIL considers it a Court Martial offense.

"...and I'll live like a princess in a house that runs like magic..."

"I have a wonderful post-war dream..."

"I'm always fresh as a daisy, pretty as a picture... and housekeeping—in my new all-Gas home of the future—seems like play!"

"I work in a kitchen that's cool, clean, free from cooking odors... where, with no trouble at all, I turn out dishes that make my family want to hug me. For my new Certified Performance Gas range is amazingly efficient—with heat controls so accurate they cut out all sorts of work and watching... save food values and cooking time!"

"I open my magic Gas refrigerator... my silent storeroom... and what do I see?... All kinds of foods, meats, vegetables, even frozen foods... Yes, special cooling units keep them fresh longer, save hours of marketing time.

"I turn on my permanent 'hot springs'... and an automatic Gas water-heating system gives me oceans of hot water whenever I want it.

"Why, even the weather is mine for the asking... for my new Gas air-conditioning system gives me 'luxurious warmth' in January, mountain coolness in July!"

Dream on, lady... For tomorrow these and other miracles of comfort will be brought to you by the tiny blue Gas flame... the flame that cools as well as heats. You can speed that day by using Gas wisely... and by saving for your home of the future with every War Bond you can buy.

Flowers Bloom Their Best In Victory Garden Rows

There Are So Many Different Marigolds, an Entire Planting Could Be Made of Them.

Borders of annual flowers around a Victory garden or along its paths will make the vegetable plot an attractive garden picture and they blend it in a pleasing manner with the general landscape planting.

The annuals best suited for combining with vegetables are those which grow upright and bear flowers on long stems. They can be sown in rows and cultivated in the same manner as the vegetable crops; and will respond to this treatment with surprising vigor.

These are also the flowers which are best for cutting, so besides decorating the Victory garden they provide a constant supply of blossoms with which to decorate the dinner table, or to fill vases around the house. The more annual flowers are cut, the more they bloom.

Zinnias and marigolds may be said to lead the list of flowers suitable for Victory garden rows; and there are so many varieties of these, differing in color, size and form, that an entire planting could be made of them.

Asters, sown directly in the garden, and thinned out to give them plenty of room, will give a late summer and fall crop of beauty. Calendulas, calliopsis (annual coreopsis), bachelor buttons (centaurea-cyanus) of red, white, blue and pink, sweet sultans, cosmos especially in the north corners where their tall plants will not shade the vegetables; salpiglossis and scabiosa are all excellent Victory garden subjects.

This list could be made a great deal longer for gardens which have room to spare, and in which dwarf ribbon plantings, and some of the sprightly annuals could be grown.

That car of yours is a mighty fine vehicle, you know. Surely you want to keep it in tip-top shape... especially because the average person may not be able to buy a new car for several years. To protect your investment, let the man who KNOWS YOUR CAR—your Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer—help you care for it. But dealers' shops are often filled early in the day, so don't wait until the last minute. Phone him ahead of time for an appointment.

A little water cleans away mud and road-scum... helps preserve car's finish.

A dab of paint on fender and body scars helps prevent rust and deterioration.

A bit of oil on squeaking door hinges or other moving parts lessens wear.

A "breath" of fresh air in tires to keep pressure uniform lengthens tire life.

Want to Sell Your Car?

Your Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer has prospects waiting for good used cars. If you want to sell your car you can avoid delay and tedious paperwork by letting him make you a cash offer.

White Sox Polished Off In Double Header To Keep St. Louis on Top in Standings

Off to a fast start with six straight victories, this may be the year the surprising St. Louis Browns will win their first American league pennant.

They polished off the Chicago White Sox in both ends of a Sunday doubleheader at St. Louis yesterday, 5 to 2 and 4 to 3. Pitcher Jack Kramer helped himself to his second victory in as many starts by blasting a two-run homer in the opener. Effective relief twirling by the veteran George Caster accounted for the nightcap.

Sharing interest with the Browns' six game winning streak was the announcement that Spud Chandler, 20-game winning pitcher of the Yankees, had been ordered up for induction into the army on Friday; the onehitter of Jim Tobin, of the Boston Braves, against the Phillies; the St. Louis Cardinals' double win over the Chicago Cubs; and the scheduled pre-production physical exam at Camden, N. J., today for Mel Ott, manager of the undefeated Giants.

Chandler, who previously had been accepted for limited service, but was not immediately called, was notified he will pitch one Athletics game before he leaves New York Thursday.

The Cards made it five in a row with their 11 to 3 and 5 to 4 triumphs over the Cubs at Chicago although it took Whitey Kurowski's three-run homer to subdue the Bruins in the nightcap. Southpaw Max Lanier won his second straight game in the opener.

Tobin's one-hitter against the Phillies at Boston gave the Braves their first win, 5 to 0, but they promptly took it on the chin again when southpaw Al Gerheuser, of the Phillies, blanked them, 3 to 0, with six hits in the second game of a twin bill. Ford Mullen's sixth-inning single was the only hit off the veteran Tobin.

Detroit ended a four-game losing streak by beating Cleveland twice at Cleveland, 6 to 2 and 4 to 3, behind the pitching of Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouser.

Rain and cold weather forced postponement of all other scheduled games.

Final Week of Exciting Race at Conewango

Lynn Branch's boys came back with a bang Friday night to take four points and retain their slim but mathematical chance of overtaking the Culbertson-Plummer combine for second half honors.

To tie with the Culbertson-Plummers, the Branch's must take all four again tonight, while the former must lose four Wednesday when they meet the Pettibones who last week lost their opportunity for the title.

This the final week of the league with the roll-offs, best four out of seven, being scheduled for next Tuesday and Wednesday and the bowling banquet following on Thursday.

In Friday's match, Kishauer topped the Branch's with 580, Barnhart had 572, Nat Drake clipped off 553 and Captain Branch added 509. Only Brumagin could hit 500 for the losing Reeds. Honorable roll scores: Drake 210, Barnhart 221 and 200, Kishauer 203 and 206, Brumagin 201.

WARREN TEAM TOPS SINGLES IN TOURNAMENT

Rolling a sensational 1235 total the Warren team composed of Mush Johnson and R. Wood went into the lead in the doubles in the annual tournament being rolled at the Penn Bowling alleys. Johnson, who has a season's average of a little over 170 cracked the maples for 661 in the competition Sunday afternoon while his partner had 574. Pat McLaughlin, of Erie, is tops for the present, in the singles with 650.

The interest the tournament is arousing among bowlers in the section is indicated by the fact that teams were competing during the weekend from Jamestown, Erie, Bradford, Kane, Freesburg, New Castle and Westleyville, in addition to a large number from Warren.

The tournament resumes the coming weekend.

Saturday and Sunday—Open bowling.

LOSSES MOUNT IN WESTERN FLOODS

By The Associated Press
Kansas and Missouri streams, swollen by torrential rains measuring five inches or more in 48 hours, swept on to mounting damage today, leaving at least three dead and thousands homeless.

Relief along the smaller streams was expected soon, however, for although scattered showers still were reported throughout the area, the downpour which dumped as much as two inches of water in a half hour had stopped.

Two Missouri men were killed by lightning near Platte City and Moberly, and a farmer near Longwood, Mo., has been reported missing.

REDS BELIEVED MASSING FOR NEW DRIVE

primary cause of the lull. The mud dried up many days ago in the southern sectors. The central and northern sectors are still boggy, but some of the Red army's strongest thrusts, including the swift crossing of the southern Bug, Diester and Prut were made despite the stickiest mud of spring.

The Russians said yesterday that local German counter-attacks southeast of Stanislau (in old Poland) and southwest of Narva on the Estonian front had subsided after infantry forces, with relatively small tank support, failed to make any significant gains.

The Axis Crimean garrison, crowded behind its fortifications at Sevastopol, is offering no offensive threat to the Red army. Having slim chances of escaping through the Black Sea fleet and the Red airforce blockade, the Germans and Romanians apparently were being left to expire slowly at a minimum cost to the Russians.

Saving Spree"

LOTS of people are on spending sprees, but millions of others are saving as never before. Bank deposits of individuals are higher than ever before in U. S. history. Sure, these savers are "doing without" now. But their reward will come when the pendulum of easy money swings the other way. Yours, too, if you'll start an account here and save with all your might.

Corydon Man Dies Suddenly In the Woods

Fred H. Smith, 89, well known resident of Corydon Township, died suddenly Sunday afternoon about three o'clock while in company with a nephew, Richard Smith, while picking leeks near his home. A physician who had been treating Mr. Smith informed Coroner Ed Lowrey that the aged man was suffering from a serious heart ailment.

The men were but a short distance from Mr. Smith's home when he collapsed. His nephew succeeded in getting him to the car but he passed away before he could reach help. Removal was made to the Lutz Funeral home where friends may call at the usual hours, one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when the body will be taken to the Methodist church in Kinzua where services will be held at two, with Rev. Harry Johnson officiating. Interment will be in the cemetery there.

Mr. Smith resided in the vicinity of Kinzua and Corydon for almost 57 years, during which time he had engaged in lumbering, farming and oil field work. At one time he was manager of the Kinzua Electric Company. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fred Riel, Fredonia, N. Y.; two sons, George E. Chapter 19

WHILE Fritz entered the apartment house to enlist the services of the concierge in helping Schaefer to his apartment, Adrienne for the first time caught sight of a bulky looking man standing on the sidewalk watching the car. Though she could not see his features he seemed vaguely familiar to her in outline. A sudden fear seized her like a cold hand clutching her heart. This was one of the men who had formerly watched the Cafe Dragon Rouge. Strange that he should be observing the arrival of Schaefer's car. It was unfortunate, as he had undoubtedly been a witness to Schaefer's condition, which might arouse his suspicions. She wondered if he had been spying outside the Cafe du Barry and had seen her enter the car.

Her train of thought was interrupted by the appearance of Fritz. He inquired in French with a marked accent to know where Mademoiselle would like to be driven. Adrienne gave the address of Madame Dupont's apartment on the Rue de Valenciennes, and Fritz took his seat at the wheel. Looking about her for the man who had been watching the car, she saw he had disappeared.

FRAULEIN AUGUSTA LANGE. Fatigued by a difficult day at her office, had retired early in her little apartment on the Rue St. Honore, when she was aroused by the phone ringing at her bedside. Sitting up hastily she reached for the receiver and was greeted by a voice speaking in German. "This is Adolf Guggenheimer speaking. Fraulein I have some information for you regarding the young woman whose movements you desired me to watch. May I see you at once, Fraulein?"

"If you are in this vicinity, Adolf, come here in five minutes." Fraulein Lange had learned the art of performing daily tasks with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of effort. So that by the time the doorbell rang, she was fully dressed and immediately ushered Guggenheimer into the small living room.

"Now, Adolf," she said crisply, "Let me have your news."

She motioned to the man to sit down. The red faced Nazi, who had a wholesome respect for a capability of Fraulein Lange, held his hat in his hands and met her searching gaze with his small shifty eyes. Hastily he narrated the happenings of the evening of his having seen Herr Schaefer carried to his car in an intoxicated condition from the Cafe du Barry on the Boulevard des Italiens by the patron of the Cafe and his own chauffeur. Of Adrienne entering the car and of his following them to Schaefer's apartment on the Champs Elysees.

Fraulein Lange's brows were knit in perplexity as the story progressed. Now and then she interjected a question. "You say, Mlle. Girard waited in the car while the concierge and Fritz took Herr Schaefer into his apartment?"

"Yes Fraulein. Then Fritz came back and drove the French girl to an apartment on the Rue du Vaugirard."

"You followed them?" Guggenheimer nodded. "Yes Fraulein."

"You have done well, Adolf. You can go now. In the morning you will receive further instructions."

WHEN the man had gone, Augusta Lange found his story had given her sufficient food for thought. Some aspects of it puzzled her. It seemed strange that Herr Schaefer, who though fond of his beer or wine, was not given to drinking to excess. Why should he have become so thoroughly intoxicated as to be unable to walk? She knew he regarded his work as too important to permit such lapses. To her the affair had a strange aspect, and she was determined to investigate it. Her brain too active to relax, it was long before she slept.

Herr Schaefer awakening from his condition of drugged torpor, was perplexed to find himself in bed in his apartment and roused to a sitting posture to glance at the clock on his bedside table. The hands pointed at eight o'clock. With a feeling of bewilderment he pressed the button on the wall near the bed. His valet, Otto, a solemn faced blond young German entered. Did Herr Schaefer want his bath water now? Would he order what he wanted for breakfast?

"Never mind that for the present," roared the irate agent. "Send Fritz here immediately."

The man withdrew. After a short interval Fritz appeared

"What happened last night at the cafe, Fritz?" demanded his master. "How did I get here? The last thing I remember was sitting opposite Mlle. Girard drinking champagne."

Fritz's immobile face did not change. "That I am unable to tell you Herr Schaefer. All I can say is that I was summoned by the proprietor of the Cafe du Barry to assist him in carrying you out to the car."

"It sounds incredible," murmured Schaefer, "I must have mixed my drinks badly. It is the first time such a thing has happened. Did Mademoiselle Girard accompany me in the car?"

"Yes sir, I drove the Fraulein home afterwards."

"That is all I wanted to know. Hand me my jacket. Then you may go."

WHEN the man had closed the door behind him Schaefer thrust his hand in the breast pocket of his jacket and relief overspread his face as he drew out the leather folder. He opened it and examined the list. It fortunately had not been tampered with. However, on a second examination, he was not so certain. It seemed there clung to it the faintest suggestion of a delicate perfume.

On closer scrutiny he noticed one of the sheets of folded paper was slightly bent at the corner as if it had been replaced in the case. Was it possible that this clever French girl had double crossed him? Even though the thought enraged him, he could not entirely suppress an unwilling admiration for her audacity and resourcefulness. How useful would such a woman be to him if her services could be relied on. But this he knew was impossible. The matter should be sifted to the bottom.

The bell of the bedside phone interrupted his thoughts. On answering he recognized Fraulein Lange's voice.

"If it is convenient, I should like to see you, Herr Schaefer. I have some news that may prove of interest to you."

"Ach," ejaculated the agent with satisfaction. "That is good. In an hour's time then Fraulein."

He replaced the receiver and pressing the bell summoned Otto again to attend to his bath and breakfast.

He was useless to attempt to deceive the

Chapter 20

ENTERING the luxuriously furnished reception room of Schaefer's apartment, Augusta Lange found him dressed with his usual care and reclining in an easy chair smoking a cigarette. Beside him on a table were the morning papers and some German periodicals. However, his night's dissipation was evident in the heaviness and redness of his eyes and in a certain languor that seemed to have replaced his customary energy and vigor.

He received her civilly, but somewhat curtly and asked her to sit down. Fraulein Lange had sufficient knowledge of human nature in general and of Schaefer's character in particular to proceed with wariness and tact. She began by affirming Adrienne's connection with the underground movement, also mentioning the name of Raoul de Lamothé, who was employed in a chemist shop and reported to play an active part in the movement.

"I have been given already to understand this," retorted Schaefer, his light blue eyes fixed on her coldly. "but lack definite proofs. Have you any to supply, Fraulein Lange?"

She evaded this direct question. "Before giving any further Herr Schaefer, I will admit I have had Mlle. Girard's movements followed since receiving a wire addressed to her which we were able to intercept. I have brought a copy of it to show you."

Opening her bag she produced the copy of the wire she previously had shown Von Egert, and put it in the agent's hand. He read it carefully, his brows knitted in thought. Observing him, she felt exultingly that she had scored a point. He did not speak for a moment.

"So," he exclaimed crowning angrily. "The munition worker has managed to give us the slip after all."

"YOU know then, this man signing himself Jean, Herr Schaefer?" She spoke eagerly.

"It is my business, Fraulein to know these things," came the cryptic reply. The agent's mind was now clear enough to function with its usual logic. He saw it was useless to attempt to deceive the astute Fraulein Lange in regard to the events of the previous night, of which she no doubt had been informed. Suddenly his attitude changed to one which instinctively she knew to be more friendly.

"Since you have proved yourself so faithful in your work for the Reich, Fraulein Lange, I will confess to you that I am trying to solve at present the riddle of my becoming so easily intoxicated last night after a few glasses of champagne. Possibly I may have been somewhat careless in mixing my drinks but it seems strange that I should become unconscious of my surroundings, that I can remember nothing but my final glass of champagne until this morning."

"Yet Adolf Guggenheimer who saw Mlle. Girard enter your car after they had carried you to it claims that she appeared to have drunk nothing at all," Fraulein Lange's eyes were fixed significantly on his. "There is a possible explanation Herr Schaefer. It sounds to me as if you had been drugged. You will recall the fact that Mademoiselle's friend, Raoul de Lamothé is employed in a chemist shop."

A LIGHT suddenly broke over the agent's face and his eyes flashed angrily.

"But how could that be possible? How could anything be put in my champagne when I was sitting opposite her?"

"You did not leave her at all?" questioned Fraulein Lange.

"Wait a moment, Fraulein. Yes, it seems to me I did for a very short time to speak to two men at another table. It had not occurred to me," he added ruefully, "but you may be right. I certainly don't feel like myself today."

"You had better have a doctor look you over," suggested Augusta Lange. "But if she has done this, she must have some object to attain, and the point is what could it have been?"

Schaefer, with the secret list in mind, remained silent. He had no intention of permitting her to know any more of his business than was absolutely necessary.

"You could have her arrested and questioned," The Fraulein remarked artfully, after a moment's silence.

"Yes, but I would require more proof of her guilt first," he replied.

"Perhaps the doctor can supply that," said Fraulein Lange, "if he finds evidence that a drug has been given you."

He made an impatient movement as if resentful of her attempt to direct his actions. "Even the fact would not prove Mlle. Girard guilty. It might have been done by some one else in the café."

"It seems to me that this girl is able to cast a spell over your sex, Herr Schaefer. You are not the first man I've known to defend her."

"It is not a question of sex attraction, Fraulein, but she is a remarkable girl and should have fair treatment. However, if it's proved that she is working against the Reich, I will no, let any sentimental influence me, I assure you."

"It won't be necessary to arrest her immediately," Augusta Lange's remark held an artful subtlety, knowing as she did the methods of the Gestapo. "But it might be advisable to cross-question her and detain her in custody for a few days if her answers to our questions are not satisfactory."

"That is a good suggestion," declared Schaefer after a moment's thought. "I will act on it. In the meanwhile I will ask Dr. Fischer of the civil administration to look in on me."

ADRIENNE left the apartment house on the Rue de Valenciennes at a much later hour that morning than was her custom, and found herself confronted by a tall lean man with a hard expression about his thin lipped mouth. Advancing towards her he said curtly in French, "You are Adrienne Girard?"

She nodded, hiding her inward misgiving under a semblance of indifference. "Yes, what do you want?"

"You will come with me Mlle. Girard," he said tersely laying a heavy hand on her arm. "You are to accompany me to Gestapo headquarters. It is an order from Herr Schaefer."

"Let me go," she said in a disdainful voice. "I will come with you, but do not touch me, or I will report you to Herr Schaefer."

Somewhat taken aback at her assumption of authority, the man released her arm and directed her towards a waiting car.
